

Important TV Notice

We understand that Atlanta Braves games are important to many of our customers, and we want to keep you informed. At this time, Braves games will not be available on our TV channels because FanDuel no longer holds the broadcast rights.

The cost to carry these games has increased to a level that would require significant price increases for all customers. To keep our service as affordable as possible, we have decided not to carry the new Atlanta Braves channel under these terms.

If you're interested in alternative viewing options— or would like to switch from BTC TV service to a streaming option— we'd be happy to provide more information and help you explore those choices. The Atlanta Braves also offer their own streaming service.

Thank you for your understanding.
